RE: Opposition to Renewable Water Resources Export Proposal

Dear Douglas County Commissioners,

On behalf of Water for Colorado supporters, and the 1,166 Coloradans who signed this petition, we urge you to reject the proposal from Renewable Water Resources (RWR) to pump and export groundwater from the San Luis Valley.

Attached is a list of 1,166 Colorado residents – including 116 Douglas County residents – who added their name in opposition to the Renewable Water Resources (RWR) proposal to pump and export groundwater from the San Luis Valley to Douglas County.

Each of these signatures is being provided from the individual supporter, and not on behalf of the Water for Colorado Coalition.

Thank you,

Water for Colorado Coalition

To the Douglas County Commissioners,

As a resident of Colorado, I urge you to reject the proposal from Renewable Water Resources (RWR) to pump and export groundwater from the San Luis Valley.

Water flowing through and beneath the San Luis Valley is essential for communities, agriculture, recreation and of course the environment. This export would have serious implications for the San Luis Valley, and the groundwater and surface water it depends on. Water in the Valley is already over-allocated and the impacts of climate change are only going to exacerbate that challenge. Residents of the Valley have been working together to manage, share, and conserve water to protect their critical water resources. This export would undue years of hard work and thoughtful collaboration across the Valley.

Groundwater and surface water resources in the San Luis Valley are connected, with aquifers sustaining streamflow that support critical habitat for cold-water fisheries and outdoor recreation opportunities. Pumping water out of the aquifers, as the RWR project proposes to do, would impact fish and wildlife habitat as well as recreation and the economic viability of the Valley on multiple fronts. Not least of those impacts could be a negative draw on the unique hydrology of Great Sand Dunes National Park, which attracts more than 600,000 annual visitors to the region's unique landscape and waters.

The RWR proposal would also impact local communities and a significant economic driver of the region – agriculture. The proposal looks to export approximately 22,000-acre feet of water per year which could dry up at least 40,000 irrigated acres in the Valley, impacting not only local farmers and ranchers but also the businesses that depend on them. Agriculture plays a vital economic role in the Valley, and it's also inextricably linked from culture and community connections to the land itself.

We are asking you as Douglas County Commissioners to reject RWR's proposal to extract and export vital groundwater from the San Luis Valley to the Front Range.

Thank you,
